

The s-Genitive

Clare's pet is a dog.

The dog's name is Archie.

Clare's grandpa lives in the county.

Mandy's pet is a hamster.

The hamster's name is Harry.

His owner's name is Mandy.

Mandy's brother is a problem.

Singular

Ist der “Besitzer” im Singular, steht der Apostroph vor dem ‘s’: Mandy’s pet

All my teachers' names are funny.

Archie is the cuddly toys' owner.

The grandparents' house is perfect.

The three hamsters' cage is small.

The three hamsters' names are Harry,

Barry, and Sally.

Bob is the three hamsters' problem.

Plural

Sind die “Besitzer” im Plural, steht der Apostroph nach dem ‘s’: the two cats’ basket.